

HIS HONOR WANTS MORE GOVERNMENT MONEY

Koenig Is Unhappy With $5.4 Million

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

The city of Kingston will be receiving $5,436,000 in "no strings attached" federal funds over the next five years under the recently approved Community Development Act, Mayor Francis R. Koenig announced today.

In other cities, such as Poughkeepsie which will be getting more than $43 million under the program, such news has been cheerfully received at city hall. Not so in Kingston.

"I don't think you could consider this a windfall in any sense," Koenig told the Freeman referring to a program that will channel $1,359,000 into the city for the next three years, $906,000 the fourth year and $453,000 the fifth year.

Koenig feels the formula used by federal officials to come up with dollar amounts worked against Kingston. The formula, keyed to population, is based on a sort of "what you got under a myriad of previous programs" is what you'll get.

Kingston, for a city of 25,000 persons, did remarkably well under the old programs, garnering some $19 million in federal urban renewal funding alone since 1964, with generous funding for housing, code enforcement and community development adding up to several million more.

Kingston's five-year average during its federal funding peak probably approached $5 million as compared to the $1 million the city will be receiving under the new formula. Koenig points out that the government used the years 1967-72 as a base for figuring past expenditures against future allotment "What hurts us is our urban renewal program started too early," he said.

"I won't say I'm not happy with it," Koenig said. "Obviously, we'd like to see more funding for the city. And we're not too pleased with the formula. We waited two years for this bill to become law. During those two years there was a lot of things we could have done that we just set aside."

Koenig also expressed some concern as to when the program would get underway. "It's been approved," he said. "But it hasn't been funded yet. We don't know when it will begin. They haven't even printed up the guidelines yet. It's supposed to begin Jan. 1 but I don't know if they'll make that deadline."

Kingston, however, is not unprepared to take advantage of the program if and when it is funded. City Planner Robert E. Pritchard, through a $10,000 grant from the State Office of Planning Services, has been working up a list of city priority programs for the past year.

The federal government, while leaving actual expenditures to local determination, will nonetheless reserve the right of initial review; thus the necessity for priority lists.

Monies from the Community Development Act will be in addition to federal revenue sharing approved two years ago. Kingston currently receives about $420,000 a year under that program, all of it allocated to the police department.

Details of the new program were outlined at a meeting sponsored by federal officials in Albany last week. Koenig attended joined by Pritchard, James G. Connors, urban renewal director and Alexander Yosman, director of the Kingston Housing Authority.

Tied to 24 Months of Public Service

Ford Proposes Conditional Amnesty

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford today offered conditional amnesty to thousands of Vietnam era draft evaders and military deserters in exchange for up to 24 months of public service and a reaffirmation of allegiance to the United States.

Ford will hold a news conference, scheduled for television and radio, at 8 p.m. tonight.

The offer of conditional amnesty requires that draft evaders and deserters present themselves to a United States attorney or military officials before Jan. 31, 1975. The offer applies to those who violated military law by deserting or evading the draft from Aug. 4, 1964, to March 28, 1973.

In a special proclamation, Ford said the period of alternative service may be reduced to less than the proposed 24 months by the attorney general, the secretary of the armed services or the transportation secretary, who has jurisdiction over the Coast Guard, in cases "of mitigating circumstances."

In an executive order, Ford also established a nine-member presidential board which will recommend such clemency to the President on a case-by-case basis. "In the absence of aggregating factors, the clemency board would be expected to recommend clemency," Ford said.

Ford instructed the board to give "priority consideration" to those men now imprisoned for such offense and asked that their confinement be suspended as soon as possible, pending the board's review.

House Republican Leader John J. Rhodes, who was one of the congressional leaders from both parties who met with Ford on the amnesty issue before the public announcement, said there was no connection between the amnesty plan and Ford's controversial pardon of former President Nixon.

Rhodes predicted the reaction in Congress to the proposals would be "mostly favorable." The Assistant Senate GOP leader Robert Griffin said the Joint Chiefs of Staff told Ford that his plan "would not undermine the military services."

The offer of amnesty, which went into effect immediately with Ford's announcement, fell short of the demands of the thousands of American young men now living in Canada and Sweden to avoid punishment for deserting or evading the draft.

"Desertion in time of war is a major, serious offense; failure to respond to the country's call of duty is also a serious offense," Ford said in his statement. "Reconciliation among our people does not require that these acts be condoned."

"Yet reconciliation calls for an act of mercy to bind the nation's wounds and to heal the scars of divisiveness."

The clemency board will consider only the cases of persons who apply before Jan. 31, 1975, and it is expected to complete its work no later than Dec. 31, 1976.

The White House said about 15,500 draft evaders are "potentially eligible." Of that total, it said, about 8,700 have been convicted of draft evasion; about 4,350 are under indictment (4,060 listed as fugitives); about 3,000 are in Canada, and about 2,250 are under investigation, but not yet indicted.

About 130 individuals are said to be currently imprisoned for draft evasion.

The board will review the records of two kinds of applicants:

—Those who have been convicted of a draft evasion offense committed between Aug. 4, 1964 and March 28, 1973.

—Those who received a punitive or undesirable discharge from the armed forces because of a military absentee offense committed during the Vietnam era or those serving sentences of confinement for such violations.

Deserters were defined by the White House as those absent from the military without authorization for 30 days or more.

The White House said about 12,500 deserters still are at large including about 1,500 in Canada. About 660 are presently serving prison sentences or awaiting military trial.

"In furtherance of our national commitment to justice and mercy these young Americans should have the chance to contribute a share to the rebuilding of peace among ourselves and all nations," Ford said.

"They should be allowed the opportunity to return to their country, their communities and their families, upon their agreement to a period of alternate service in the national interest, together with an acknowledgement of their allegiance to the country and its Constitution."

Alternative service was described by Ford as service which would promote the national health, safety or interest. No draft evader will be given the privilege of completing a period of alternate service in the armed forces, he said.

'Pardon No Help'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former White House physician Walter Tkach says President Ford's pardon was no help in lifting Richard M. Nixon's spirits.

He described Nixon as a "man looking back and wondering what had happened to topple him from the presidency."

Tkach said he has given up, for the time being, trying to persuade the former president to enter a hospital for treatment of the thrombotic phlebitis in his left leg.

Nixon has been subpoenaed to testify in the Watergate cover-up trial of six former aides which begins Oct. 1. While Tkach did not address himself directly to the question whether Nixon would be well enough to appear, he said that in general: "I'm recommending to him that he not get under any more pressure."

Tkach, an Air Force major general, was relieved of his

White House duty after Nixon resigned and is now command surgeon at nearby Andrews Air Force Base. He flew to San Clemente, Calif., Friday to examine Nixon at the urging of the Nixon family, and said he would go there again late next week.

Tkach said in an interview that he had detected "no depression," but found Nixon suffering from exhaustion and "more concerned" than Tkach observed him to be two weeks ago.

"He seems to be more tired," said Tkach. "He doesn't have that bounce to attack."

Had the pardon helped his spirits? "The pardon didn't do him a damn bit of good," replied Tkach.

He said he feared a buildup of more tension or pressure could lead to a heart attack because Nixon is under "severe physical strain."

Tkach repeated the statement he made Saturday, that Nixon told him: "If I go into the hospital, I'll never come out alive." He said that when the former President spoke so fatalistically, "I stopped right there."

He said he believed Nixon feared he could develop more blood clots if he was bedridden in a hospital: "He probably thinks being in bed helps develop more clots."

Tkach and Dr. John Lundgren of Long Beach, Calif., who accompanied him on the examination of Nixon at San Clemente last Friday, reported that a new clot had developed in Nixon's left leg.

Tkach said it was not as severe as the clot in his lower leg which appeared last June, but that both he and Lundgren felt Nixon should go into a hospital where he could be given anti-coagulants.

He is under medication at home, Tkach said, but is refusing to wear the prescribed elastic stocking to prevent swelling.

Jewish New Year Starts Tonight

Two Women Hostages Free

THE HAGUE (UPI) — Three Japanese guerrillas occupying the French Embassy freed two weeping women hostages today, but kept nine men to bargain for safe passage out of Holland with a comrade sprung from a Paris jail.

Authorities negotiating with the Japanese Red Army extremists provided a getaway jet but insisted the gunmen free all remaining hostages, lay down their arms and name their destination. The Marxist guerrillas, who wounded two Dutch policemen in seizing the embassy Friday afternoon, have demanded $1 million in ransom and safe passage out of the country with at least some of the hostages. The freed women, both embassy employees, emerged from the brightly lit hallway of the five-story building at 3:50 a.m. (10:50 p.m. EDT Sunday), nearly 60 hours after the ordeal began.

Negotiations between the Ministry of Justice and the Japanese resulted in the release of two girls, the only females among the hostages," a police spokesman said. Police said the guerrillas reported to be "munching peppermint candy" remained on the top floor of the modern concrete and brick building with the nine other hostages, including Count Jacques de Noailles, 54, the French ambassador.

Four plainclothes police met Bernadine Jacqueline Geerling, the embassy telephone operator, and Joyce Fleur, the secretary to the ambassador, as the two 22-year-old women emerged crying from the building. The guerrillas already have won the release of a comrade, Yutaka Furuya, 25, from the Sante Prison in Paris. Furuya was flown early Saturday to Holland's Schiphol Airport, where he has remained under custody.

French authorities flew a jetliner from Paris to Schiphol late Sunday before the two hostages were released, apparently to serve as a getaway plane.

20th Fund Drive Starts Next Monday

United Way Leaders Hopeful

Past disappointments forgotten. This year's campaign goal, United Way of Ulster County will launch its 20th annual fund drive on Monday, United Way's Board of Directors will meet Wednesday night to decide on a final figure. Last year, $355,000 was raised, short of the $410,000 goal; in fact, the last time United Way met its goal was in 1967.

"Regardless of the goal, it's never enough," said Sloane. "We'll need at least $600,000 just to meet the deficit of our membership agencies."

The mood was one of optimism at a press conference held today to announce the 1975 United Way campaign. "We have a well-staffed, enthusiastic campaign team," commented significantly reduced the average American money the average American can afford to contribute. According to Mark Kachigian, years.

"The needs of the community continue to increase," said Sloane, "but the money we've done this year, he said, but will raised in recent years has done instead concentrate their efforts little more than maintain the status quo. We can't expand our fund drive ends Nov. 2.

In addition to raising money this year, United Way will be the community this year to service to the community. "But recognize our needs," said Sloane, "and we intend to maximize our own efforts so services agencies," said public relations chairman James Thompson, "there won't be another year."

Congress Violates Rights

In the years that Congress has been writing legislation to outlaw ethnic or other discrimination in employment, the hiring practices of congressmen themselves have somehow been overlooked.

Now there are well-documented reports in several newspapers that show blatant discrimination in hiring by a score of congressional offices — Republican and Democrat alike.

In their request for administrative help, legislators or their staff members specified such things as "whites only," "no minorities," or "no blacks." Conversely, one lawmaker asked for a young female "from Texas and black." He also was recorded as preferring clerks with Spanish surnames.

Private employers are faced with rigid requirements to prove that they are complying with federal laws forbidding racial, ethnic, religious or sex discrimination in hiring. The government is wide open to charges of hypocrisy when members of congressional staffs resort to such repugnant practices in their own offices.

Women's political and liberation groups, the American Civil Liberties Union and organizations established to protect human rights have never hesitated to go after private employers over violations of the Civil Rights Act. However, it is difficult to understand why these groups have paid such little attention to these members of Congress who are telling the American public, "do what I say, not what I do."

Blow to NATO

The latest fracas on Cyprus is as serious a blow to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization as the erection of the Berlin Wall in 1961 and the withdrawal of French military forces from the alliance in 1966.

The blow could be even more serious than those events if the wound now opened along the Mediterranean flank of Europe is not healed quickly and effectively.

The Greek armed forces, which the Athens government is withdrawing from NATO, had a substantial responsibility in the framework of European defense. Greece has a border facing three Communist countries — Bulgaria, Yugoslavia and Albania. Some of NATO's tactical nuclear weapons are based there. Her ports are a vital link in naval defenses in the Mediterranean. Geographically and strategically Greece must be regarded as a major element of NATO's eastern anchor.

This weakening of Western Europe's defenses is a clear benefit to the Soviet Union and its Warsaw Pact. The irony is that it costs the Communists no effort at all. The chain of events that began with the coup on Cyprus over a month ago shows vividly how the Soviet Union is profiting by the neglect of the Western alliance to keep its own house in order.

Concern Over S. Korea

The trouble in South Korea should be a serious concern to Americans.

If the attempt to kill President Park, which caused the death of his wife, is a result of the growing opposition to Park's authoritarian regime, it is a sign of growing instability in South Korea.

It could prompt Park to impose even more harsh measures to repress the opposition. The Park government has taken the position that all its critics and opponents are Communists or dupes.

Already this year, Park has prosecuted a large number of his political opponents in military court, including a Catholic bishop, and many of them have been sentenced to death. Students and Christian leaders have been among the major targets of suppression by the Park government.

Edwin Reischauer, former ambassador to Japan, has warned that internal instability in South Korea caused by Park's attack on constitutional freedom is threatening South Korea's independence and weakening the common United States-South Korean defenses against a possible takeover of all Korea by the Communist regime in North Korea.

The United States with 38,000 American soldiers in South Korea certainly has an interest in the growing opposition to the Park government.

It is unfortunate that the people of South Korea are losing their constitutional freedoms in the name of national security.

By JACK ANDERSON

LES WHITTEN
WASHINGTON — From the guerrilla camps of Lebanon to the Vietcong-occupied forests of Vietnam, terrorists are fighting with weapons paid for by the U.S. taxpayer and intended for use of Americans.

In our own travels we have seen ragamuffins cavorting among live Army artillery shells, belts of machine gun ammunition lying unprotected at an Air Force base and untended tanks and jeeps ready to be driven away by intruders.

In Southeast Asia, recently, hundreds of thousands of rounds of U.S. rifle "ammo," bombs, mines and artillery fuses were reported stolen from sea-going munitions barges.

No case, however, better illustrates the holes in America's arms cornucopia than the U.S. depot at Miesau, West Germany, and the nearby Weilerbach storage area near Kaiserslautern.

For years, the depot had been losing munitions at an alarming rate. Thousands of rounds of ammunition, from 22 caliber bullets to mortar shells, cases of dynamite and blasting caps, hand grenades and missiles had simply disappeared.

But no one knew how bad the problem actually was until February 1972, when Army investigators received a tip "that a group of Third-Country Nationals" had stolen "critical munitions" from Miesau. The resulting investigation, outlined in reports stamped "Confidential," which we have obtained, is still continuing.

The three "nationals," the Army found, were Polish-born employees of Uncle Sam. The trio had made off with fifteen 66 mm antitank rockets and three 2.75 inch air-to-surface rockets.

They also had their eyes on anti-aircraft Red Eye missiles, the report said.

One of the thieves, moreover, previously had been investigated for "larceny of U.S. government property." No one, apparently, had bothered to check his file when he was hired.

Further investigation revealed that 32 additional U.S. government employees, many of them security guards, had seamy records.

Two were suspected of "working with Polish Intelligence Service." Another was a "suspected Yugoslavian Intelligence active"; yet another had been employed "by Hungarian Intelligence Service."

One subject was found to be a "devout Communist." And one man's record, astoundingly, indicated he was "at one time a general in the Russian army."

A confidential report circulated by the German Federal Criminal Bureau had indicated that "a number of Arab agents were operating in (Germany) with the intent to attack U.S. installations."

Upon checking on government employees working in the area, Army investigators found that 19 Syrians had been hired or fired "in the Kaiserslautern area during the period June-Oct. 72." There was evidence of "very real terrorist activity" tied to the loss of arms and poor security at the depot.

Thousands of Red Eye missiles are stockpiled at Miesau and Weilerbach. The American equivalent of the Russian Strella, they are the perfect terrorist weapon — light, compact, heat-seeking, shoulder-fired.

One August afternoon, discloses a report stamped "For Official Use Only," Army investigators happened by the railhead at Miesau and "found what they believed to be a pallet containing 4 Red Eye missiles . . . placed in open storage . . ."

This sparked a probe of the Red Eye stocks and accounting system at Miesau. The results were frightening.

"The inventory established the presence of 3776 missiles stored in earth-covered magazines . . . states the confidential findings '2305 can be accounted for by receipt documentation. No records could be found to indicate the remaining 1471 missiles were ever received . . ."

In short, the depot had what auditors call an "overage" of Red Eyes. To the military, overages represent an even greater danger than shortages, because there is no way of determining what is actually missing.

The Army investigators also surveyed the physical security at Miesau and Weilerbach. Their findings:

— The perimeter's chain-link fence has oxidized to the point that it has lost its tensile strength and can be broken or crushed with the hand . . . The top and bottom weaves have rusted and broken loose . . . holes are beginning to appear . . .

— "The above-ground storage facilities have fallen into a poor state of maintenance and repair. The prefabricated concrete and fiber siding and roofs have become brittle and can be damaged or broken with little effort. Numerous hinges and door hasps are rusted and in a weakened condition . . . master keys must be considered compromised."

— "It was also observed that 'select' civilians are authorized 'entry into the Miesau Storage Areas on the basis of German-American relations. The persons are purported to be berry-pickers and naturalists. These personnel were not escorted during their stays in the ammunition storage areas."

— A survey of the guard force disclosed that during the six-month period prior to the Army investigation, "a total of 254 infractions were recorded . . . These involved 'AWOL, drunkenness, sleeping on duty, performing guard duties without a weapon and false reporting by guard personnel."

— "Vast quantities of unguarded munitions were located in open storage at both . . . railheads. These items included, but were not limited to, 105 mm and 155 mm artillery rounds, rockets, small arms ammunition, mines, fuses and missiles."

— Over a one-month period, "an estimated 200 TOW missiles, a sensitive munitions list item, were observed in open storage on the south side of (one) railhead. At no time . . . in the course of approximately 3 weeks were these missiles under protection of a guard."

Two entire guided missile systems valued at $10,800 were reported missing, along with grenades, pistol and rifle rounds and other items sufficient to equip a small army.

Although Miesau's commanders sought to hinder the investigation, according to the report, there are indications they also nervously tightened security. Elsewhere, Pentagon security sources tell us, the situation remains acute.

Inside Report

Speeding the Decision

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Hours before resigning the presidency in the face of hard obstruction-of-justice evidence against him, Richard Nixon was convinced that his successor, President Ford, would issue him a full and complete pardon.

But outgoing President Nixon never received assurances from Gerald Ford himself that a pardon could be counted on.

Indeed, even though President Ford secretly informed intimates that a presidential pardon for Nixon — eventually — was an absolute certainty, he did not undertake direct negotiations with Nixon on the pardon question.

The bridge between Nixon and Mr. Ford was Nixon's White House chief of staff, Gen. Alexander Haig, and Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, the senior member of the cabinet and Nixon's closest collaborator outside the rancid White House itself during Nixon's five and a half years in office.

In addition, one key Republican member of the House who supported impeachment against Nixon was authorized to inform Nixon just before his resignation that powerful House Democrats were totally opposed to his criminal prosecution. That strengthened Nixon's confidence about a pardon.

Against that background, Mr. Ford inexplicably succumbed to pressure last week from Nixon intimates and agents and secretly decided, without consulting a single politician, to pardon Nixon months before anyone expected it — except possibly Nixon himself.

It was Haig and Kissinger who carried on their shoulders the awful burden of convincing Nixon he must resign. Although neither one committed incoming President Ford to a Nixon pardon, Nixon left the White House convinced that President Ford was, indeed, committed.

"Nixon had one thought and only one on his mind during those last days and that was his pardon," one highly qualified Ford insider told us. "If he hadn't believed he had the pardon in his pocket he might have put the country through the torture of full impeachment proceedings."

It was precisely the prospect of that calamity which propelled Haig, Kissinger and every other major figure in the transition drama five weeks ago to get Nixon out of the White House. If the prospect of a full pardon was held out to Nixon in exaggerated form, that was the reason. All else gave way to the single objective — get Nixon out.

Nixon had been judged mentally aberrant for fully two years by observant officials who had worked with him closely and known him well. Their judgment was ruthless — but, in the circumstances, inevitable. Nixon must be removed from the presidency to safeguard the nation.

With Nixon back in San Clemente, convinced his pardon was only a matter of time, and with Mr. Ford having revealed to close aides his hard intention to grant the pardon — presumably months in the future — the stage was set for the course of events that led to that Sunday's shocking decision.

Thus, President Ford several times wondered out loud why he saw no pictures of Nixon walking the beach at San Clemente — or riding the freeways, as he used to do. Heightening this presidential concern about Nixon were alarming reports flowing into the Oval Office — reinforced by Haig and Kissinger — that the former President was on the edge of a mental breakdown. At one point, Kissinger expressed a private fear that Nixon's life might be in danger by his own hand.

Adding to the pressure on Mr. Ford was a crescendo of warnings from Casa Pacifica that the allegedly promised pardon must be delivered soon, or Nixon's health might be fatally undermined. So, acting with uncharacteristic and politically damaging stealth, Mr. Ford made his decision to pardon.

In retrospect, some Ford intimates now deeply regret that the President did not embark on a major campaign in Congress for a resolution looking toward pardon the minute he took office. They feel that if Mr. Ford had spelled out immediately and publicly his own intention to issue a complete pardon, and used his full power to lobby a sense-of-Congress pardon resolution, he could have had it.

At least two powerful Democrats had given private assurances to the Ford White House that such a resolution was quite feasible.

Even without such a resolution, one leading House Democrat said that if Mr. Ford had given advance notice to allies in Congress, a powerful backfire could have been built, partially offsetting the devastating political reaction of last Sunday's shocker.

As for the true mental state of the former President, some Ford advisors doubt that he is any worse off than he has been the past two years. If so, those who propelled President Ford into his sudden decision — and his stunning political decline — made a delicate and complex political problem infinitely worse.

Going Downhill Without Brakes

One of the rules of this racket is never to write in anger. I have tried hard, as the youngsters say, to "cool it," but I am seething. I am not even fit for table conversation at dinner. Twenty million of our low-income families are being hammered into the ground by inflation.

Inflation has affected everyone, and those who can afford it are being robbed blind, too. But they can hang on. I can hang on because I owe nothing on the house and I have a few bonds stashed away. But the broad base of families who live on a paycheck from week to week are becoming desperate.

I am not an alarmist. I see no signs of what I recall so dimly of the 1930s. Beautiful homes were sold by sheriffs for the $2,400 in taxes owed. Men with big strong hands burst into tears as mothers parcelled a package of cereal, covered with condensed milk diluted with water, for dinner.

In my anger, I see

President Ford, that breath of fresh air in the White House, smile and wave as he hurries off in his helicopter to Camp David. He says, before leaving, that he has been conferring with economic experts. I believe him. I also believe he cares.

But this is like driving down a mountain road and finding that you have no brakes. It is not a solution to tell the family, "fear not, I will put the car in low gear," because the damned car is going too fast.

Nor does it help to point out that this is a worldwide depression. This blessed land still has all the treasures it always had: it has more skillful working hands than ever; it will produce and sell more cars, more refrigerators, telephones, apartments, books, clothing, shoes than the most populous nation on earth — China — can afford to buy.

This is an emergency. Old people on Social Security are eating canned dog food. We can send $4 billion abroad to help strangers, but we dole food stamps to our poor. We send a billion to South Vietnam to an insidious group of governmental thieves.

Twenty-nine years after World War II ended, we maintain soldiers and air bases in Europe which cost billions more. If we need all those soldiers (who spend their pay in Europe), what the hell do we need all those expensive missiles for?

We have a big costly Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean. It is supposed to be a deterrent — to stop wars. Will someone please explain to me what it did for Cyprus?

No, the President prefers to deal at once with draft dodgers and deserters, but the big economic conference is something he could afford to postpone from mid-August until late September.

Government is leadership. Leadership, day in and day out, looks for national problems and tries to solve them. Our man in Washington is not there to show a profit. Good government is efficient administration and equitable taxation. The rest is for the birds.

America is blackmailed by the Arabs. The nomads have traded their camels for Rolls Royces. Why? Because we have always lived so high on the hog that we forgot how to plan our needs. That's why.

We are a selfish, arrogant, greedy people. If you have a monopoly on bread, you can jack the price as high as you please, and the poor must pay it or do without. The only God we ever truly had was the dollar bill, and it has gone to hell. You can purchase a pound of baloney with it. That is, at present time.

The national credo has become: do unto others before they do it unto you. In the field of agriculture, the best Secretary Earl Butz can promise is the worst. Peter Brennan, Secretary of Labor, is paid to hold wage increases to the agreed level of 5 per cent. Has he? Pardon my chapped lips.

A depression, coupled with inflation, is like having a hurricane and a drought at the same time. We have it. Our Keynesian wizards have been holding conferences with Presidents since 1970. We have had phases numbered one, two, three and four. Or was the last one three-and-a-half?

None of them stopped or slowed the spiral of wages and prices. Anyone who has aggregated a 55 per cent wage increase in the past five years has no more purchasing power than he had in 1969.

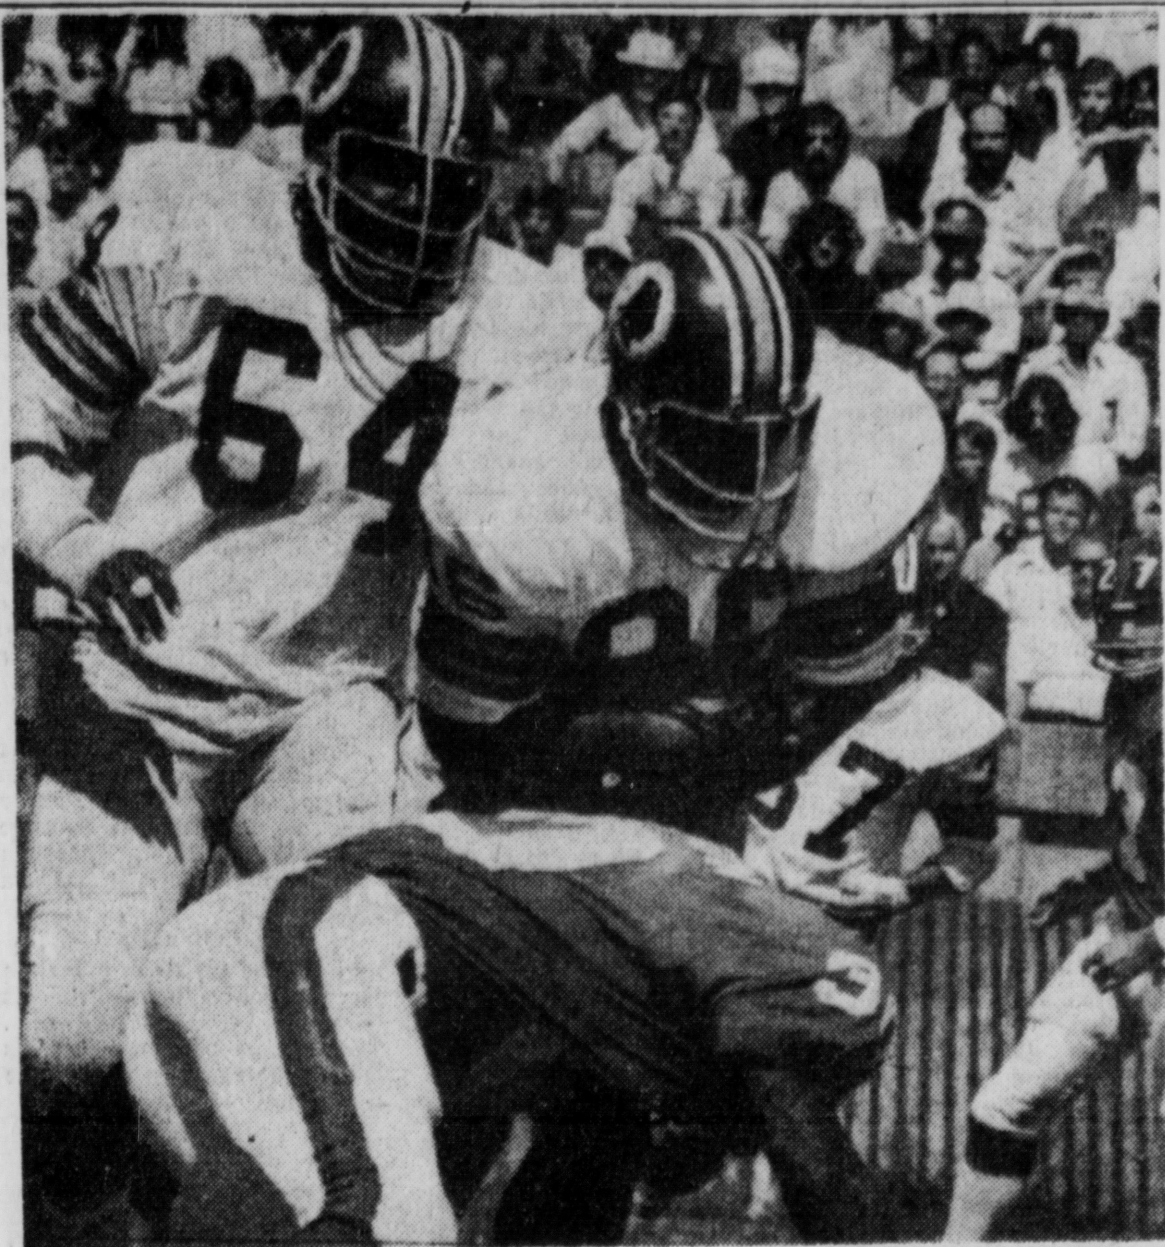

My personal fury is such that I find it difficult to write the things I want to say. Inflation, in many ways, is worse than war. It kills silently, without bullets. Ask the Germans of 1925. Ask the Americans who remember 1932.

As a citizen, as a father, all I ask is positive leadership in the White House. I could forgive a wrong move on the part of the President, provided he made a move...

A Moment of Glory For Marvin Upshaw

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Defensive end Marvin Upshaw had his greatest moment of football glory Sunday.

Upshaw stole a pass off the fingertips of John Riggins and ran 52 yards for a touchdown that spurred the Kansas City Chiefs to a 24-16 National Football League victory over the New York Jets.

"The first thing I wanted to do after I got the ball," Upshaw said, "was stop and rest. That was the first touchdown I ever scored."

"I saw Riggins set for the screen as he came around. I was lucky enough he didn't have complete control of it, and I came up with it."

The touchdown burst by Upshaw came with 10 seconds left in the first half with the Chiefs trailing 16-7. Joe Namath, the sore-kneed Jets quarterback, threw the pass. After Upshaw set sail toward the goal line, a wave of Chiefs formed near him.

"I thought about trying to go after him," Namath said. "I thought about it...it was just a routine pass. If the guy is covered, you just throw it on the ground. If he's open, you slip it to him. The ball bounced up once, up again and..."

Namath's voice faded away. Until Upshaw's interception, the Chiefs had had a miserable afternoon on offense, being plagued by poor field position. They penetrated their 30-yard line only twice, once when they traveled 46 yards on five plays with Ed Podolak jamming into the line for two yards and a touchdown.

A 27-yard field goal by John Stenerud gave the Chiefs a 17-

Raiders Face Bills Tonight

ORCHARD PARK, N.Y. (UPI) — Buoyed by the surprising loss of the Miami Dolphins to the New England Patriots Sunday, the hopeful Buffalo Bills take on the Oakland Raiders tonight in the first Monday night game of the young National Football League season.

The Bills, in the same American Conference East Division as the Dolphins, hoped to make the playoffs this year via the "wild card" route, figuring Miami would easily win the division title.

But, the Bills face the Raiders with a slightly different outlook tonight, seeking to take a one-game lead over the Dolphins, whom they host next Sunday.

The Bills, who went to a 4-3 pre-season record by virtue of wins over such teams as Washington, the New York Giants, Detroit and Kansas City, are just about the same team as last year's, which wound up with a 9-5 record.

Fred "The Hammer" Williamson won't be in the broadcast booth for tonight's game. The former Kansas City Chiefs' defensive back was released from his job as a commentator Saturday.

16 edge in the third period. Emmitt Thomas intercepted another Namath pass and ran 38 yards for a touchdown in the final two minutes.

Despite four interceptions, Namath was brilliant. He completed 14 of 30 passes for 210 yards and two touchdowns. He capped drives with a 13-yard end zone pass to Richard Caster and a seven-yard toss for six more points to Ed Bell.

Namath said he wasn't pleased with his performance. "We lost," he explained. "And my knee? It feels fine but what difference does it make?"

Chiefs Coach Hank Stram said the game, nationally televised and played before a crowd of 74,854, "was not a great one for us. It was a game of great plays, particularly defensively. The play that turned the game around for us was Upshaw's interception. He gave us fire."

"Any time Namath has the ball, he's dangerous. And those three receivers of theirs are really murder."

Stram praised Larry Brunson, the Chiefs' rookie wide receiver, who caught three passes for 43 yards, returned a punt for 29 and a kickoff for 57.

Charley Winner, the new Jets coach, thought his team "played pretty good football. It was just two big plays that did us in."

Winner did not elaborate on the two big plays but added, "The middle screen looked like a safe play. We wanted a field goal."

That was an obvious reference to the backfire created by Upshaw.

Kilmer Says Skins Were Lucky

By HOWARD ULMAN
Associated Press Writer
NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — After spending the afternoon trying to move against a stingy New York Giants defense, Bill Kilmer pronounced the Washington Redskins "lucky" to come away with a 13-10 season opening National Football League victory.

"They played tough defense and you just can't force the ball into it, or you're gonna get in trouble," the Redskins quarterback, who completed 9 of 19 passes for just 83 yards, said after Sunday's game.

Besides whatever luck the Redskins might have had in taking their seventh straight game from the Giants, they also had a stonewall defense of their own that limited New York to 158 yards and 12 first downs.

"We have to play better on offense. I thought our defense was outstanding," Washington Coach George Allen said.

New York Coach Bill Arnsparger, the man who molded the Miami Dolphins' notorious "3-3" defense, said he was "pleased" with the way his defenders played in his first regular season game as coach.

Washington's other touchdown with 5:42 converted to make the score 13-10. From there, Washington's Mike Bragg and New York's Dave Jennings were busy punting the ball back and forth until the last series of the game, when Washington ran the ball five times to run out the clock. The series included a 16-yard run by Larry Brown, the Redskins' longest. The paid attendance was 51,764, far short of capacity at the Washington nine. Two plays later, rookie Doug Kotar pulled York's 1973 home games were over from the six and Gogolak sellout.

Shula's Dream Turns Nightmare

By JOE CARNICELLI
UPI Sports Writer

Don Shula's dream has started off like a nightmare.

Shula's dream is to surpass the late Vince Lombardi and become the first coach ever to win three Super Bowl titles. He has two and figured to get off on the right foot toward a third Sunday when he sent his Miami Dolphins against the New England Patriots.

After all, here was a team that had lost only two games in the last two years playing against a rebuilding group that struggled to win five games last year.

But the nightmare started early and when it was all over, Shula saw his Dolphins on the short end of a 34-24 decision.

Little Mack Herron, a 5-foot-5 refugee from the Canadian Football League, started it for New England with a 14-yard touchdown run and after Larry Csonka helped tie the game with a one-yard plunge, Jim Plunkett took over.

He threw 13 yards to Reggie Rucker for one score, set up John Smith's 21-yard field goal and then ran five yards for another TD for a 24-10 New England halftime lead.

Garo Yepremian's 33-yard field goal put a small dent in the lead but Sam Cunningham ran 13 yards for a TD and then the young Pats held on as Bob Griese threw 13 yards to Marlin Briscoe and Csonka plunged four yards for another TD. Smith applied the crusher with a 26-yard field goal.

"We saw it on the films," moaned Shula. "They're much improved. They have a lot of young kids on defense. They're not going to make the big mistakes they did last year. And their offense was a tough one to stop last year. Plunkett really makes it go."

Plunkett, who had one of his finest days as a pro, hit 14-of-24 passes for 177 yards. Herron carried 18 times for 88 yards and Cunningham 21 for 87 to provide the balance.

"It seemed like everything worked today," said Plunkett. "That's what makes a good quarterback...when everything works. We were up emotionally; this is really what you call being up for a game."

"Everyone wanted this one bad," said defensive back Ron Bolton. "These cats just believe we can do it. I could see it in practice that our young defensive guys could play."

"It's a helluva start," smiled second-year Coach Chuck Fairbanks. "Maybe it's the start of good things to come."

George Amundson, a disappointment as a rookie last season, had TD runs of one, eight and three yards to lift Houston, which won only once all last year, over San Diego. Amundson provided the winning score with 13:20 left after Dan Fouts threw 29 yards to Gary Garrison for a tie.

49ers 17, Saints 13
Rookie Sammy Johnson ran nine yards for a score with less than two minutes left to boost the 49ers past New Orleans. The run came after Bill McClard has given the Saints a 13-10 lead with a 31-yard field goal.

Fran Warmed Up After Awhile

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI) — It seemed as if there were two games between Green Bay and Minnesota Sunday and the Vikings "came out to play" the second one.

"It took Francis (Tarkenton) awhile to get going," said Vikings Coach Bud Grant after Minnesota's 32-17 victory, made possible by a turnaround in the second half. "It was really the first game he played this season."

The two teams played to a 10-10 tie at the half, but when they took the field for the third quarter, Tarkenton took charge, hitting nine of 10 passes for 61 yards. He mixed his passing with the running of Chuck Foreman, Oscar Reed and Ed Marinaro to complete the reversal of ball control the Packers enjoyed in the first half.

"I don't think we had the ball in the first quarter," Grant said, although the Vikings did have it for two brief series, scoring on a 20-yard Fred Cox field goal within the first five minutes.

"It takes a while for the players to get used to this, to get their confidence established," Grant said.

Tarkenton, who was hobbled for much of the pre-season with a foot injury, said, "We just came out to play solid football in the second half."

Asked if that meant the Vikings weren't prepared when the game began, he said, "You can't play good football against a good defense for four quarters. I've always had the greatest respect for the Packers' defense. They're always tough on us."

Packers Coach Dan Devine was pleased with his team's play in the first half but conceded it was all Minnesota after that.

Allen Always Had Touch for Dramatic

CHICAGO (UPI) — Dick Allen always had a touch for the dramatic.

Saturday night, he wrote his own tearful ending to 11 stormy years in major league baseball.

The Chicago White Sox' $225,000-a-year slugger, who leads the American League in home runs, suddenly and mysteriously called his teammates together in the clubhouse before their game with the California Angels — and announced he was quitting baseball.

"This is hard for me to say," he said. "I've never been happier anywhere than here. You're a good ball team without me and you have a good man leading you (Manager Chuck Tanner). It's tough to walk away from the game I've been playing and loving — been playing, in fact, since I was this high (he held his hand waist high)."

Allen's voice broke, tears welled in his eyes and his teammates lined up and quietly shook his hand. He left the clubhouse and immediately slipped into seclusion.

The announcement was not altogether unexpected because the emotional 32-year-old superstar had expressed disillusion with baseball on a number of occasions this season.

Throughout his career, including seven years with Philadelphia, where he often was booed and sometimes failed to show up for games, Allen came here to Los Angeles, and three seasons with the White Sox. Allen never played on a pennant winner. Once early this season he said, "That's what keeps me hanging around."

Allen had a .301 batting average, 32 home runs and 88 runs batted in when he retired but the White Sox had faded to fourth place in the American League's Western Division.

He gave no reason for his retirement and abandonment of a contract which would pay him $1,308 per day during the season through 1975. Sox General Manager Roland He- mond said he thought he had the "best guess."

"I think it's because he had a great disappointment that the team did not win (the Western Division). Allen came here to do a job and for him that means everything."

Allen was selected eight times to play in the All-Star game, and in 1972, his first year in Chicago, he was chosen as the American League's Most Valuable Player.

But White Sox third baseman Bill Melton said, "He came over here to win and we didn't do it. He probably felt he had helped as much as he could."

He was temperamental about such things as training camp and batting practice throughout his major league career but Tanner and the White Sox management gave him less pressure than other teams. In a seeming final slur at his critics, Allen went through a rare batting practice with the Sox Saturday night before announcing his retirement.

Miller Was Thinking About Money Record

PINEHURST, N.C. (UPI) — two other golfers in a four-way money championship more than Johnny Miller, on the verge of sudden death playoff Sunday, said Miller after smashing golf's money winning for the $60,000 first prize in the winning his seventh tournament record, still gets nervous in a PGA's richest tournament—the $300,000 World Open.

But the 27-year-old blonde With the win, Miller needs (Gary) Player and Lee Trevino California overcame those of $4,160 the rest of the year are in their, prime—that's really jitters Sunday to beat Jack to break Nicklaus' record of $320,542.

Nicklaus, the current season $320,542 money-winning titleholder, and "I was thinking about the

Palkowics Is Top Gun In County

NEW PALTZ — Jim Palkowics had himself a field day at the Mid Hudson trap range here Sunday. The annual Ulster County Circuit Shoot Field Day. Palkowics fired a perfect 50 out of 50 to win the Ulster County trap championship, capping a year in which he also won the Circuit High Average award with a mark of .956 for the season.

Palkowics was also the High Overall shooter for the day, finishing with 97 of 100 in two events. In the individual match, he outlasted runnerup Paul Wirthmann. Wirthmann scored 48 out of 50, then won a shootout for second place with Dan Hurley.

Eugene Smith was crowned the Champion of Champions as his 48/50 total made him the victor in the contest of former county champs.

In the individual classes, Hurley won the AA shoot with a 48 out of 50; the Class A title went to Frank Abate who had a 47 out of 50; the Class B, Harold Depew won with a 47 out of 50; Harold Mantz took the class C honors with a 46 out of 60; and Ron Lapp Sr. won in Class D with a 43 out of 50.

In the team events, Stan Gomes was perfect in 50 attempts to lead Walker Valley to the scratch championship. The winners totaled 228 out of 250 with Wally Turner and Tom Grossi each scoring 46. Bill Zobel hitting 44 and Jim Rose getting 42 out of 50.

The handicap division was won by Wawarsing as Eugene Smith, Ray Markle and Phil Moore all had 48's. Art Smith had 45 and Bob McKee had 42 to produce a winning score of 231 out of 250.

Other individuals to post victories during the day included Rube Anderson who shot 46 out of 50 and took the Unclassified A title. Betty St. Clair won the women's division with a 40 out of 50 score, and Ted Longendyke, at age 85, won the Oldest Shooter Award.

The intermediate champ was Mark Zaccaro who fired a 32

Haynie Annexes Charity Golf

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — Defending champion Sandra Haynie shot a tournament record 66 Sunday to win the $40,000 Charity Golf Classic.

Miss Haynie had a three-round total of 208, three shots better than the second place 211 total of Jane Blalock, who led the first two rounds.

Miss Haynie had rounds of 33 and 33, including six birdies, Sunday, but said she started off badly by three-putting the first hole for a bogey.

"I was really mad," she said. "I went for a birdie and I shouldn't have done that early in the round."

She said a 10-minute wait to get on the No. 2 tee helped cool her off.

Mary Mills and Muriel Breer shot 70 and 73, respectively, for three-round totals of 215 to share third place honors.

Miss Haynie took home $5,700 for the win which moved her from fourth to third place in the LPGA money standings behind JoAnne Carter in first and Miss Blalock in second.

He had been thinking specifically about the money-winning title for this season, he said, and hadn't realized he was so close to setting an alltime record. He has now taken in $316,283 for the year. Nicklaus is runnerup at $231,507.

Nicklaus' earnings include the $23,200 he received for finishing in a tie with veterans Frank Beard and Bob Murphy for second place after the playoff.

Nicklaus and Miller began the day Sunday tied for the lead at four-under-par 209. But both turned in disappointing one-over 72s in the final round and Murphy, the first round leader, and Beard carded two-under 69s to throw the tournament into a playoff.

Murphy, a rookie sensation when he joined the tour in 1968 but winless in the past three years, double-bogeyed the first hole of the playoff while Beard, Nicklaus and Miller had pars on the hole—No. 15, a 203-yard par three.

Miller fired his drive straight down the fairway on the second playoff hole—the par five No. 16—and followed with a three wood that left the ball 10 feet from the hole.

He missed the putt for an eagle, but tapped it in for a birdie. "It's a weird feeling, having to two-putt from 10 feet to win," said Miller.

Nicklaus' putt for a birdie lipped the cup and the tournament was Miller's. And so, almost certainly, was the season money title since he plans to compete in the Kaiser and Sahara tournaments in coming weeks. Nicklaus said he plans to play in another two as well—the Kings Island Open and the Disney World Tourney.

"I was nervous in the playoff," said Miller. "I didn't realize how nervous you can be in these playoffs." It was only his second playoff as a pro. He lost to Nicklaus in the other, which came in the 1972 Crosby.

"The second shot I hit at 16 (second playoff hole) may have been the best I've ever hit under pressure," he said.

Nicklaus said he was disappointed at not winning the money title, but "more over not winning the tournament, far more."

"I had a very unusual day," said Nicklaus. "I really wasn't sharp, particularly around the greens. My chipping was poor, too."

Beard, a 12-year veteran who has won 11 events but none since the 1971 New Orleans Open, said "I can't complain. I seemed to have erased a lot of what has happened in the last three years."

The play of all four top finishers was somewhat erratic over Pinehurst Country Club's 7,000-yard, par 71 No. 2 course. Miller had rounds of 73, an eight-under 63 that missed the course record by a stroke, and another 73 in his earlier rounds.

Nicklaus went 68-71-70 in the first three rounds; Beard had 67-70-75 and Murphy had 65-74-73.

Finishing alone in fifth place was Australian Bob Stanton, who took home his biggest check, $12,300, since returning to the tour last year. He finished with a 67 for a 282 total, two under par and one stroke back of the leaders.

Charles Coody, the 1971 Masters champ, and Jim Dent, regarded as the longest driver on the tour, joined 25-time winner Gene Littler at 283. Coody went up with a 72, Littler a 81 and Dent a 66 that was the best round recorded Sunday.

At even par 284 were two Australians David Graham and Bruce Devlin. Devlin had a final round 73 and Graham finished with a 72. Lee Trevino, J.C. Snead, Bert Yancey and Buddy Allin were clustered at 285, one over par.

Miller's final round was mostly par golf, the exceptions being bogeys on the first and 14th holes and a birdie on No. 12. Nicklaus' up-and-down final round included one double-bogey, three bogeys and four birdies. Two of the birdies came on the 16th and 17th holes.

Miller, Nicklaus and Beard all held the lead at one time or another during the final round. Murphy birdied on the 18th hole to join the others in a playoff.

SAND BLASTERS — Third round World Open co-leader Jack Nicklaus (top) and Johnny Miller, who started out at four under par, each lost a stroke on front nine. Nicklaus is shown blasting out of a trap on the fourth, and Miller is digging on the first in Pinehurst, N.C. (UPI)

Keene St. Edges Ulster In Hampshire Tourney

KEENE, N.H. — A physical game that could have gone either way, commented Senator coach George Vizvary, who noted his team missed several early opportunities to score. "But it was a beautiful game. They beat us physically. Keene had a two-week advantage on us as far as conditioning was concerned. After only a week and a half of practice, to play two games in two days was difficult for us."

Ulster veteran Franklin Hill was second to Keene's Mickey Rooney in the tournament MVP balloting.

Vizvary was disappointed but not discouraged with the Senators' second place finish. "We've added to our mentality," he said of the experience. "The first half of the game (against Keene) made me happy... you know we have kind of a franchise on mixed short and long passes, and we did that well, but we do have a problem finishing."

Ulster's inexperienced players will have several more chances for seasoning before the Mid Hudson Conference race begins on Oct. 1. The Senators are slated to play exhibitions against Oneonta St., Delhi and New Paltz in addition to their own tournament on Saturday.

Ulster will face Columbia University in the opening round at Stone Ridge while NYU squares off against Hunter College in the other matchup. Winners and losers will meet for the championship and consolation titles. The MHC season for Ulster opens at Dutchess C.C.

Of Bertuna, a sophomore who was forced to play goal when Ulster's regular goalie became ineligible, Vizvary said: "He was not bad for only two and a half days of practice. Keene certainly tested him, but he's big and strong and I'm sure he'll do very well for us this year."

Danish Spoils Kickers' Debut

KINGSTON from the original Kicker dynasty to save the Kickers from a had high hopes of dedicating the new playing field with a victory Sunday but Danish of out the scoring for the day.

New York refused to go along with the plan. An excellent save of an almost sure Danish goal at the 10-minute mark by goalie Joel Tomson was nullified by a hand ball penalty and the Danish got a penalty kick that they converted.

A mistake by Tomson in the second half in a one-on-one situation enabled Danish to score their third goal. Nine minutes later, Reinhardt took a reflected ball and turned it into a superb scoring effort.

"We were very pleased with the turnout for our first game in Kingston in several years," said Tomson, the Kickers publicity man. "The field was in excellent condition and we think we're going to draw well there."

Phil Rutherford was outstanding in the outside left position for the Kickers. The Kickers are on the road against Banatol next Sunday.

Score by Halves

| | Danish | Kickers |

| First Half | 2 | 1 |
| Second Half | 0 | 1 |
| Total | 2 | 2 |

(Scoring Summary)

Danish — Tony Mosholt, 20 min.; Lean Anderson, 40 min. and 75 min.

Kickers — Reinhardt, 84 min.

It required five days to get in the first two races in the best of seven series, with Courageous winning both by impressive margins over the Australian challenger Southern Cross.

Fog and a lack of wind knocked out two days, and on Saturday the third race was abandoned when neither boat could complete the 24.3 mile offshore course in the required 5 1/2 hours.

Sunday was a "lay day," requested by the Aussies, who admit their backs are against the wall.

Wedding Vows Exchanged

MRS. JAMES CANNIZZARO JR.
(Dorothy Oakley)
(Airtcraft Camera Center)

Dorothy Oakley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Oakley of Accord, exchanged nuptial vows with James Cannizzaro Jr., 15 Abruyn Street, Kingston, at St. Peter's Church in Rosendale. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Cannizzaro of Stone Ridge.

The Rev. Gerard Bliss officiated at the ceremony. Wedding selections were provided by Kathleen Kelly, organist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, selected a traditional white gown in the Empire style of silk organza over bouquet taffeta. The gown was embroidered with appliques of cotton lace and featured bishop sleeves, a high neckline and chapel train. Her cathedral length silk illusion veil was attached to a headpiece accented with matching lace appliques. She carried a gardenia cascade with white rose and gladiolus.

Kathy Oakley of Accord was honor attendant. Attendants were Barbara Weeber, Stone Ridge; Eva Oakley, Accord; Patty Christiana served as flower girl. Their Empire styled polyester voile gowns in powder blue, light mint green, light orchid and light pink, respectively, were trimmed with white lace and featured puffed sleeves and flowing skirts. They wore white horsehair picture hats trimmed with illusion veiling to match their gowns and carried colonial bouquets of gladiolus, daisies and miniature carnations.

Thomas Cannizzaro of Stone Ridge was best man. Ushering were Gene Cannizzaro, Stone Ridge, and Kenneth Oakley of Accord. Michael DeCaprio was ringbearer.

A reception was given at Walnut Grove in Kingston.

The bride, a graduate of Rondout Valley Central School, is employed by Rotron, Inc. Her husband, also an alumnus of RVCS, is employed by Ulster County Highway Department.

Mr. and Mrs. Cannizzaro Jr. are residing at 15 Abruyn Street, Kingston.

Lefooters Square Dance Club's Fun Night Slated

EFFIE AND FRED JOHNSON of Rhinebeck get in step in preparation for tonight's Fun Night sponsored by Lefooters Square Dance Club. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

Lefooters Square Dance Club will sponsor "Fun Night" this evening and next Monday, Sept. 23, beginning at 8 p.m. at Hurley Reformed Church Hall. Interested persons will be treated to free square dancing lessons as well as demonstrations by club members showing the quality of dancing which they will be capable of should they decide to complete the series of lessons.

Modern square dancing is a truly American activity. Four couples form a square and dance a pattern of "figures" upon the command of the caller. It is characterized by a smooth, shuffling walk to music. Gone are the wild swinging barn dances of yesteryear, and the high-kicking clog stomping frequently seen on television.

People of all ages and walks of life who are interested in good, clean fellowship and fun are the kinds of folks who take up square dancing. Instead of husbands and wives going separate ways, this is an activity geared to bring couples closer together.

Fancy dress is not necessary for square dancing. The first requirement is to dress for comfort, and second for show. For men, however, a long-sleeved shirt is a must. Dressing for dancing is part of the fun so more elaborate costuming may be desired later. For the workshop sessions, ladies would be most comfortable in a full skirt or slacks, and comfortable shoes, preferably low-heeled.

Age is no barrier to square dancing. While most dancers are between the ages of 20 and 70, teenagers may "quare up" with 80-year olds.

Learning to square dance requires lessons in basic movements. A series of lessons are necessary to become proficient enough for club dancing. Square dance clubs have been formed all over the U.S., Canada and about 50 foreign countries. Anyone who has taken the workshop, and learned the basic movements of square dancing is welcome to attend these club dances, as the language of square dancing is universal. Within the Hudson valley, there are many clubs, most of which dance from September to June. Many of the clubs close down for the summer months.

Interested persons or those who wish to decide whether or not they are interested are all invited to attend the Fun Night.

To Meet Tonight

The Ladies Auxiliary of Sawkill Fire Company will hold its first monthly meeting for the 1974-75 year at the firehouse tonight at 8 o'clock. A program of entertainment has been planned and refreshments will be served.

Social members are invited and anyone interested in joining the Auxiliary is welcome to attend.

PWP Events

Parents Without Partners No. 383 will have an orientation night Tuesday at 8 p.m. On Saturday there will be a dutch treat dinner at Roberto's Restaurant in Port Ewen at 7:30 p.m. Details may be obtained by contacting PWP in Kingston.

Lecture Tuesday

Ulster County Legal Secretaries will hold its second in a series of six lectures at Heritage Savings Bank, 273 Wall Street, Kingston, on Tuesday from 7 to 9 p.m.

Instructor will be Bernard A. Feeney, Family Court judge. The topic will be "On Being a Notary Public."

YWCA Course

Woodstock resident, Alice Bernstein, will teach a course entitled "Women and Literature" at Kingston YWCA Thursday evenings beginning this week from 7:30 to 9 p.m. The course will include selections from twentieth century female writers and the emphasis will be on the role of contemporary woman as seen through the eyes of these authors. The class will be run as a group discussion with full participation of each member. Alice Bernstein holds an MA degree in Literature from New York University and has taught literature at several colleges. Further information may be had by contacting the Kingston YWCA.

Apple Festival

The fourth annual Apple Festival at Port Ewen United Methodist Church will take place Friday from 5 to 10 a.m. and Saturday from 2 to 10 p.m. A penny social is planned for Friday. Snack foods will be available. On Saturday roast beef dinners will be served at 4:30, 5:30 and 6:30 p.m.

Exhibits will include Hudson River Memorabilia, Captain William Benson; Rock Collection, Paul Hyatt; Port Ewen Library Association, Mrs. Anita Granitto; Furniture Refinishing, Mrs. Marion Finch; Forge, Bradley Fell, the latter two being working exhibits.

Special features will include a garage sale, flowers, plants, handmade gifts from the "Fruitique," handblown glass, children's items, cider apples, pastries and jams, old books. Mrs. Maxine Wingate, well known Woodstock artist, will be doing on-the-spot portraits both days. Banjo players and bagpipers will entertain and on Saturday at 7:30 p.m. Lefooters Square Dance group will perform.

Speaker Named

WILLIAM S. KEYSER

Ulster County Legal Secretaries Association will hold its monthly dinner meeting Wednesday at 7 p.m. at Dominick's Restaurant in New Paltz. Guest speaker will be William S. Keyser, now serving his fourth consecutive term as Ulster County coroner.

Coroner Keyser is president of Keyser Funeral Service in Kingston and Port Ewen. A U.S. Army veteran, he is an active participant in civic and church affairs and served as chairman of Ulster County's annual Heart Fund Drive for many years.

Reservations for the dinner may be made with Candace Schwerdtfeger.

Grandma Finds a Gold Mine—in Plates!

NORTHBROOK, Ill. — A successful art dealer in this Chicago suburb has announced a new, easy way to start collecting rare porcelain plates with high resale potential.

According to Thomas Gilmore II, president of this dealership, one grandmother of modest means bought one exceptional plate for $25 in 1965 that now sells for $1,050, and purchased another at $10 in 1969 that now brings $245.

Mr. Gilmore says, "Since many plates do not increase in value, amateurs often make serious mistakes." He offers a free report telling what to look for, what to pay, when to sell, and much more.

To get your free report with no obligation, just send your name, address, and zip code to Thomas Gilmore, Bradford Galleries, 426L Bradford Place, Northbrook, Illinois 60062. A postcard will do. Because of limited quantities, please mail your request by Sept. 28, 1974.

Luncheon Meeting

The fall luncheon meeting of Mid-Hudson Elmira College Club will be held Saturday at 11:30 a.m. at the home of Mrs. Gordon Wilcox, Vineyard Avenue, Highland. Final plans for the Elmira College Octagon Fair will be made. Reservations should be made with the hostess prior to the meeting.

Members are requested to bring handcrafts. A sandwich should be brought along; beverages and dessert will be furnished.

Offer Film On Alcoholism

KINGSTON The Ulster County Mental Health Center's Alcohol Clinic is presenting a film on the understanding of alcohol and alcoholism Wednesday, Sept. 18, at 8 p.m. in Kingston Municipal Auditorium, 467 Broadway. The highly recommended film, "Chalk Talk," is provided by the U.S. Postal Service and is a simple but effective approach to gaining a better understanding of the alcohol problem. There is no charge for admission and everyone interested in this subject area and especially those working in the alcoholism treatment field are urged to attend. Emil Groth is alcohol abuse coordinator for the Ulster County Mental Health Center, and he may be contacted at the center in the Kingston Laboratory for further details.

Aldermen Set Special Session

KINGSTON The Common Council meets in special session tonight to set a public hearing on a proposed development in the Uptown Urban Renewal Project. The urban renewal agency is asking approval of James Berardi of Kingston as the developer of Parcel 12 next to Utility Platers on Washington Avenue. Berardi, who has acquired the adjoining Cito service station property, plans to combine both and lease the facility to Trailways for a new bus terminal. The aldermen meet at 7:30 p.m. at city hall.

Anti-Busing March Staged in Boston

BOSTON (UPI) — Defying police, a noisy, unorganized crowd of 200 white youths and parents staged an anti-busing march through a section of South Boston today, the third day of a court-ordered plan to integrate Boston's public schools.

One arrest was reported. There was no violence, but a few youths threw a couple of ashcans at police. Other children ran across the hoods and roofs of parked cars.

Some 300 police tried to contain the crowd with horses, motorcycles and foot patrolmen, but they kept spilling out and tried to move up side streets towards South Boston High School—the most racially troubled of the city's 80 schools affected by the federal court order.

Police cordoned off East Broadway and Emerson Street thus preventing the group from marching on the school.

The march began shortly after classes started and as it appeared that a black boycott of South Boston High School softened when four buses full of black children attended classes. Mayor Kevin H. White called on all liquor stores and bars in South Boston to close until at least 4:30 p.m.—and possibly all day.

Early estimates were that about 200 students, including 110 to 115 black children were in classes at South Boston High.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market retreated again today in a continuation of the skid that drove the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials to a 12-year low on Friday.

The opening Dow reading was down about a point, and losers took a 2-1 lead over gainers on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said the market was continuing to reflect unhappiness over inflation and its potential effects it might have.

The International Monetary Fund, in its annual report released over the weekend, warned of "an international recession" unless the world's nations worked effectively together to keep inflation from getting "further out of hand."

Today's prices included Chrysler Corp., unchanged at 12; National Gypsum, down 1/4 at 9 1/4; Sperry Rand, down 1/4 at 23 1/2; and Texaco, unchanged at 22.

On Friday the market finished its worst week of the year with the Dow Jones industrial average falling 14.55 points to 627.19, and joining all the other popular indicators at the lowest since the early 1960s.

UCCC Offers Trigonometry

STONE RIDGE Ulster County Community College will offer a five-week course in trigonometry this fall. The course will start on Tuesday and is open to UCCC students and members of the community.

The course is intended to serve primarily as a refresher in the treatment of trigonometry. Topics will include angles, trigonometric functions of angles, trigonometric functions of real numbers, graphs of trigonometric functions, identities, trigonometric equations, and solution of triangles.

Registration will be held Tuesday at 12:30 p.m. in Room 623 in the Hardenburgh Building on the Stone Ridge campus. Classes will meet on Tuesdays and Thursdays and the first class will be held immediately following the registration period.

The course, to be taught by Assistant Professor Vaughn, carries one credit or may be taken credit-free.

LEGAL NOTICE

NOTICE TO BIDDERS September 10, 1974

The Board of Education at its regular meeting held on September 9, 1974, declared the following as surplus property, which should be sold on an "as is" basis:

1 General Electric domestic dishwasher Model SD 900 Serial Number SD 940 C1 2350891

Therefore, the Board of Education will receive sealed bids for the sale of the above mentioned item. The dishwasher may be inspected at the Senior High School, Washington Avenue, Saugerties, New York, Monday through Friday.

Sealed bids for the purchase of the dishwasher will be received at the Office of the Business Manager, Administration Building, Hill Street, Saugerties, New York, up to 11:00 a.m. Monday, September 23, 1974, at which time they will be opened and read aloud.

Terms of sale: cash at time the dishwasher is picked up.

The Board of Education reserves the right to reject any or all bids not deemed in the best interest of the School District.

All bids must be enclosed in a sealed envelope plainly marked "SEALED BID FOR DISHWASHER".

GERALD L. SNYDER, Business Manager, Saugerties Central School District #1 Administration Building Hill Street Saugerties, New York 12477

Tuesday, September 17

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You don't have much faith in the abilities of others who are involved with you in your activities. It's best not to rely on them too heavily.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If any work you have to do today is too heavy or strenuous to do alone, better wait until you can get help.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You're apt to be spending on nonessentials with too free a hand. Remember: If you're on a budget, it will only stretch so far before it snaps.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Even though you may not feel as sure of yourself as you should, put up a bold front. Bluff your way through.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You're not thinking as clearly as you're involved in. Doublecheck everything. Otherwise a large error could slip through.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Try not to get your friends mixed up in any financial problems you may be facing. It is best for you to resolve things through other channels.

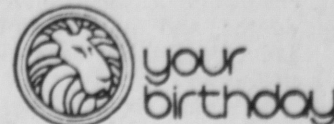

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) If you're going to pattern your actions after anyone at this time, be sure you pick someone whose methods aren't too harsh or severe.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't let another's comments give you a bad opinion of yourself. You know what you really are. This person just thinks she does.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Plans that you make for yourself today won't be realized in the manner you envision if you select the wrong teammates.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You'll be able to get a few jumps on your competition if you don't spend too much time on minor obstacles.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)

Set high goals for yourself this year but don't expect them to materialize overnight. Real gains can be made but YOU will have to pay the price. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

ESCAPE?: (Q) I am an atheist and all my "friends" are trying to convert me. They tell me I will go to hell and things like that. I try to tell them that I respect their opinions, but they are so narrow minded they don't understand.

Worst of all, my parents tell me they are ashamed of me. The only escape I can see is to leave home so I can be free. What else can I do?—Persecuted in Texas.

(A) You cannot be "free" until you are at peace with yourself. You cannot be at peace with yourself until you know who you are and what you are.

You insist to yourself and to others that you are an atheist, but you do not believe it strongly enough to be sure. Instead of fighting your friends and parents, listen to them. They may have something to tell you.

Don't run away. You can't run away from yourself.

SUSPICIOUS: (Q) Peter thinks I go out with other guys, which I don't. He doesn't trust me. I don't know how to get through to him that I wouldn't go out on him. I think we should have a mutual trust for one another. Please tell me how I can convince him that I love only him.—Unbelieved in New York.

(A) It is correct that mutual trust is very important. But, talking about it and insisting upon it do not necessarily make it come true.

Sometimes we complain of our own faults when we see them in others. Do you trust Peter? Do you really love him? If you do, stop debating with him, and maybe he will stop debating with you.

Jim: "How about some articles on the Little Old Ladies."

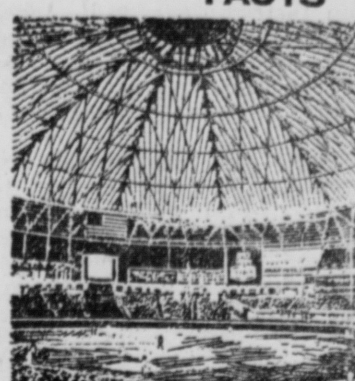

Jim: "They all used to be underbidders. Today they are unpredictable. Point count is probably responsible."

Oswald: "They sure got to me in a recent duplicate game. I sat East. North's six trump bid followed the remark, 'I really shouldn't bid this against Mr. Jacoby.'"

Jim: "I see that with both your spade king and your partner's diamond—king in limbo, the slam made easily."

Oswald: "It made all right, but I wouldn't say easily. South moaned and groaned for several minutes while apologizing profusely to her partner for having opened a 14-point notrump, because she just never bid four-card spade suits. However, her moaning and groaning didn't keep her from taking both finesse and chalking up a clean top against me and my unfortunate partner."

71 Persons Are Killed

Hijacker Blows Up Airliner

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — A hijacker described as a wealthy playboy army captain blew up a South Vietnamese airliner and killed all 71 persons aboard after the pilot refused to fly to Hanoi, officials said today.

It was the first hijacking to result in a large number of deaths, and the first time a hijacked plane has been blown up in the air.

The officials said the hijacker, 31-year-old Le Duc Tan, bypassed security checks Sunday when he boarded the Air Vietnam Boeing 727 at Da Nang for a flight to Saigon.

Police in Da Nang were reported questioning Tan's wife, who owns a beauty parlor there, and an air force security sergeant who they said helped Tan evade the security check.

Officials said when the airliner was about halfway from Da Nang to Saigon, Tan ordered the pilot to turn back and fly to the North Vietnamese capital. Instead, the pilot prepared to land at Phan Rang, 160 miles northeast of Saigon, and Tan set off two grenades he had brought aboard the plane, the officials said.

Eyewitnesses said the plane made one pass over the airfield, circled back and banked sharply as it approached the runway. They said there was an explosion and the plane crashed nose first not far from a minefield.

The plane burst into flames when it hit the ground and the fire spread to the minefield, setting off a claymore antipersonnel mine.

The eight crew members and 59 of the 63 passengers were Vietnamese, according to the passenger list. The others were two South Koreans, a Filipino and a Frenchman.

By nightfall rescue teams searching in the rain through the charred wreckage had recovered 68 bodies, many of them badly mangled, officials said. They also recovered a special tape recorder aboard the plane to record conversations during an emergency.

It was the third attempt in two years — all unsuccessful — to hijack a South Vietnamese aircraft to North Vietnam. Air Vietnam reportedly has ordered its pilots to refuse to fly to North Vietnam even under duress. Observers say the airline's security precautions have been lax and haphazard, but one official said security measures were being tightened at all airports.

Tan's motive was not known yet. Authorities said he had a bachelor of arts degree in political science, joined the army in 1962 after service in the militia as a commando, married in 1964 and had three children. Although assigned to Dalat, he lived in Da Nang and was known there as a wealthy playboy with a succession of automobiles.

WATER TRUCK SPRAYS FLEEING RESIDENTS (UPI Telephoto)

Flood Rips Nevada Settlement

NELSON, Nev. operations at daybreak for at least seven persons missing and at least seven are missing when a killer flash flood swept in a weekend flash flood that ripped through this shoreline settlement Saturday.

The bodies of Marian Carter, formerly of Santa Ana, Calif., and Nadine Peterson of Las Vegas, Nev., were recovered by rescue workers. They were reported to have been inside a restaurant near the shore or Lake Mojave when the flood waters struck.

A National Parks Service spokesman said the seven missing were presumed dead. Gov. Mike O'Callaghan, who flew to the flood-devastated shore Sunday, offered state assistance in the search for victims and said he was there to make sure the rescue operation was coordinated, properly.

O'Callaghan, who was also a regional director of the Office of Emergency Preparedness in Santa Rosa, Calif., said, "Any time that you go to a disaster where human lives are lost, even with the sun shining brightly, it's a dismal scene."

The temperature Sunday was near 100 degrees, with one white puffy cloud marring an otherwise clear sky over the mountain where a cloudburst spawned the flash flood Saturday afternoon.

The flooding of Nelson Landing, located about 35 miles south of Las Vegas, Nev., was caused by heavy rains in the mountains about six miles west of El Dorado Canyon. Nelson Landing is located between the canyon mouth and the lake.

Water began rolling down the canyon and picked up debris and momentum as it neared the narrow funnel-like mouth of the canyon that leads into the lake.

The flood waters washed buildings, trailers, boats, cars and people into the lake as it churned down the canyon.

A 100-foot crane with a "clamshell" scoop was brought into the area to dig up the debris before rescue divers entered the lake.

The shoreline has been pushed several hundred feet into the lake by the debris. The bay, once about 40 feet deep and used for launching boats, was virtually has been filled by mud and silt.

A Las Vegas police helicopter combed the lake that widens the Colorado River behind Davis Dam for bodies that may have been washed downstream.

Dr. Otto Ravenholt, Clark County coroner and health director, said many of the victims buried in the mud might never be recovered. He likened the result of the flood to an avalanche.

The National Parks Service had warned of flash flood dangers in the area and sought to restrict Nelson Landing to daytime use only. However, local protest groups persuaded political leaders to overturn the park service proposal.

Candidate Angell Blasts Fish

KINGSTON, N.Y. (UPI) — Charging that "two wrongs do not make a right," Democrat Gordon Liddy — a man who was paid to mastermind and commit a common burglary — "Liddy was nothing but a hired gun, a common thief," Angell told the Freeman.

Fish said that the laymen would probably interpret Ford's pardon of Nixon as implying guilt. "Far from implying guilt," Angell said, "what the pardon effectively does is block any real determination or public disclosure of the facts of the former President's guilt or innocence."

"The extent of Mr. Nixon's involvement will never be revealed. The pardon of Nixon's involvement and Fish's proposal to extend the pardon to all Watergate defendants would be the greatest coverup of the entire Watergate nightmare and pardon the worst political crimes and corruption in our nation's history," Angell declared.

Angell, who had stated Watergate would not be an issue in his campaign after Fish voted for impeachment as a member of the House Judiciary Committee, says "now it's a whole new ball game."

Angell also took issue with Fish's statement that Ford's pardon was "an attempt to close the book on Watergate."

"In reality the pardon reopens the Watergate wounds and once again diverts the attention of our people and government away from the more pressing problems of our country," Angell said.

"The nation was relieved when Nixon resigned and every one hoped and expected that Watergate would be concluded through our normal judicial processes. By the stroke of a pen, President Ford has put Watergate back into the headlines and unleashed political emotions."

"Fish's proposal to pardon all Watergate defendants — Fish said it would be inconsistent to do otherwise — undermines a principle which is fundamental to our democracy — equal justice under the law," Angell said.

"Why is a Watergate burglar to be preferred over any other burglar or over someone whose crimes were less serious? It is unconscionable that political crimes are treated differently than other crimes," he concluded.

Carey Gains Support of Teachers

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Rep. Hugh L. Carey, the Democratic congressional record as "unflaggingly pro-education and pro-education," has labor."

The group's board of directors — led by its vice president, Albert Shanker, and its retiring president, Thomas Hobart — said.

The announcement, made Saturday, hailed Carey's congressional record as "unflaggingly pro-education and pro-education," has labor."

Republican Gov. Malcolm Wilson has been seeking the statewide group's support by backing reductions in probationary periods for new teachers and changes in the Taylor law, the group reportedly was concerned that Wilson planned to hold down educational spending in future budgets.

The statement said "Mr. Carey's record has been unflaggingly pro-education and pro-labor. His policies are imaginative and progressive."

"We believe Mr. Carey's election would be in the best interests of all the people of New York State," the group said.

State Sen. Mary Anne Krupak, Carey's running mate for lieutenant governor, also received the union's backing.

Ecevit Resigns in Turkey

ANKARA (UPI) — Premier Bulent Ecevit, hailed as a hero over his handling of the Cyprus crisis, resigned today, plunging Turkey into its second government crisis in seven months.

Ecevit handed his resignation to President Fahri Koruturk during a one-hour meeting at the presidential palace, a spokesman said.

The resignation marked the end of a shaky coalition between Ecevit's left-leaning Republican People's party and the conservative, Moslem-oriented National Salvation party of Vice Premier Necmettin Erbakan.

Ecevit refused to answer newsman's questions when he left the presidential palace.

"The premier will hold a news conference later today," a party official said.

Ecevit, a former labor minister who first gave Turkish workers the right to strike, rose to the peak of popularity when he landed troops on Cyprus July 20 to protect the island's Turkish minority.

Relations between the premier's party and the Moslem group, always tense since the start of their partnership in January, soured further when the Moslems publicly claimed credit for the Cyprus intervention and said ministers of Ecevit's party had opposed it.

Matters came to a head in a dispute over who should serve as acting premier during the scheduled foreign trip by Ecevit this week. The Moslems argued Erbakan, as vice premier, was the logical choice for the job, but Ecevit said he would name one of his own followers, State Minister Orhan Euyoglu.

Ecevit had been scheduled to leave for Norway Wednesday on the first leg of a 12-day tour that also was to take him to Sweden, Finland and Denmark.

Marchers Remember Attica

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — Two-thousand demonstrators marched peacefully through downtown Buffalo over the weekend to commemorate the third anniversary of the Attica support for the 59 persons indicted in connection with the rebellion.

The marchers, led by black activist Angela Davis and nine of the Attica trial defendants, walked past the Erie County jail where some of the others indicted in connection with the Sept. 9-13, 1971, riot are held.

At one point in the demonstration Saturday, the four-block long line of marchers wound around three sides of the jail, with marchers shouting their support to those inside.

Miss Davis said during the three-hour rally on the steps of City Hall before the march that the noise of the chanting demonstrators would be important to the persons inside the jail.

"I was there and I know what it meant to know there were people out there dedicated to struggle until I was free. Nixon had Ford and (John) Dean knows he'll only serve three months, but the Third World peoples' only hope is us," she said.

Persons at the rally heard protest songs, numerous messages of support for the Attica brothers and speeches by defense coordinator Haywood "Big Black" Smith, in addition to Miss Davis' talk.

Miss Davis, Burns and Smith were each critical of President Ford's pardon of former President Richard M. Nixon.

All three called for freedom for the Attica defendants.

Burns told the group, which was the largest demonstration in downtown Buffalo since anti-war marches in 1970, that the nation must look away from the Attica defendants to "the real criminals."
